Been thinking about but can't recall what data was being withheld & I don't know where to start. If it was in the SEC report that mentioned it or somewhere else, but I recall there was data they exempted from reporting. I thought it was Jan 2023. Was it swaps? Short data? Who was withholding it & will we actually see it? What if anything will come of it?

I was getting my GME tits jacked but then I couldn't remember where to look. To me the only reason to withhold any data is because it shows fuckery & to smooth over any outrage it might cause.
