Just like the subject says, I keep thinking about this over the last couple months especially with the updated DRS numbers. Why wouldn't a big whale or institution just buy up the rest of the float of GME and be done with this bullshit? I hold 8914 shares. It seems like the infinite money hack for a large institution to crush this thing and finish it all off. Why wouldn't they do it? There re trillions of dollars in the system; it really wouldn't cost that much in the grand scheme of things.
