All of the tokens that are held in GameStop that have a one share to one token ratio. In the case of bankruptcy and people not being able to access their assets, where do those shares go? this might of been about the shares that are held in FTX more than the partnership of FTX but like I said, I have a smooth brain and have little to understand about the situation. I am texting from my phone. Sorry for the miss punctuations. And yes, if you have DRSED you don't have to worry about it. And further more what are the chances that a big player comes and acquires FTX is there debt worth there assets and pipelines?
