There seems to be a coordinated and massive push-back against Chrome this weekend (and any Chromium browser) on all the subs. This feels like the same kind of attacks on NFTs in the past six months. Yes, I know not everything is about GameStop but the timing of this suspicious.

My tinfoil senses are tingling. They are saying that's it because Google's attempt to stop adblockers from working (and there is truth to that and it really does suck) but I think it may also be because Chrome is way ahead of other browsers when it comes to Web3 development. Web3 is a massive threat to big finance and the main engine behind GameStop's NFT and Web3 plans.

I can't find anyway to use the wallet with anything other than chrome.

Is there a way to use GameStop Wallet with Firefox or Opera?
