CS offers several different ways of payment. You can get direct deposited to you bank account. You can get a check mailed to you. And you can even choose what currency you would like your payment to be converted into and sent through a global wire transfer if you have a bank account outside the U.S. you would like your payment sent to.

Now!..what if there was a way that GameStop could set up a deal with them directly since they are GameStops registered transfer agent, to have yet another option available...

What is that option you ask? Glad you did...

It's receive your payment directly deposited into your GME wallet.. in either USD, or whatever fiat currency,

OOOORRR...

Exchange it right into a crypto that is GME wallet compatible...■

Thus eliminating custodial banks altogether when "More-Ass" hits preventing any situation of a bank defaulting or failing.

Anyway you get what I'm saying.
