Hi everyone, Bob here.

And my effort to educate the masses, so we can all enjoy our tendies in the future, I went ahead and wrote an introductory post to options. It's been crazy, but I do intend to continue this series so if you have questions have to reading, let me know and I'll add answers in my next posts.

I'm posting this here today because I was just looking at another post on this sub where there's still a whole lot of confusion about how options work, why you would buy them, and how lever to retail could f the shorts... Just like they did in January.

GameStop, $GME, and Big Papa Ryan Cohen are all pro options. So why aren't you?

If you are, congratulations, you're not a tool in this tool shed.
