Put on the tinfoil here...

These SHFs watch everything. They calculate every move to constantly wiggle out of jams. OPEX was hyped up by Gherk and his clan followers (I follow him but with a grain of salt and only during OPEX weeks). To Gherk's credit, he is extremely extremely knowledgeable and understands the market better than 99% of us. But the "know it alls" sometimes get burnt the most.

When Gherk and his clan play OPEX, they only play it for those 3-4 days and then get out and start selling covered calls when it's over.

TELL ME IM WRONG:

Gherk has the largest social media presence on YouTube for diehard GME Apes. The SHFs found a way to delay the run-up until this week to get his followers of their calls and catch them with their covered calls. I have a feeling lots of assignments will be given this week. This is how the SHFs acquired just a few more shares to help them wiggle.

Doesn't matter though. Their time is coming to an end. Tick tock m*%#^+f^#+%ers!

Buy. HODL. DRS. ■
