So we had a down time now with the price and its been decently silent up to now, but.... SUDDENLY i see posts go, omg is gme shots closed and crap like this with ofcourse the usual " this is not find but.."

Usualy everytime stuff like this happends, it takes a week or two and price peak like a erect nipple, so mark my words, this may be a trust me bro post, but if you zoom out you will see another peak usualy come around this time.

As a extra incentive and my personal opinion, i do belive when the nipple peaks come we usualy arent to far from the big one, my guess is we just need 1 big push while it grows and we good to go, each time it raises they push it down, and here come the BUT!

But what if in mid peak Ryan throws the bathing pot he got not to long ago into the stock and gave it the push it needs, how would the market react, would it be unstoppable by then as more would jump on?

Well lets wait and see, give it a week or two apes, lets see if the fud alarm was the preprice jump as it always is again ■
