

Title: When it takes off it's completely out of control. Nobody can control the company or the shareholders. 53% to 56% in less than 30 days represents billions of dollars being locked up. No one besides the DRSED will be allowed to win. Don't be a bystander to generational wealth. DRS yo shit

Time and time again this conversation has come up. The general idea is nobody knows what will happen when a massive event like this occurs BUT at this point it's pretty much undeniable that this IS HAPPENING.

We know brokers updated their TOS to make sure they can immediately take your assets for themselves when the time comes.

With 71m to borrow, it's proof that still many people have not DRSED. These are your broker shares being rehypothecated infinitely. Millions are in this game but only a fraction of them will actually make it to the finish line. Every trick in the book will be used, including constantly assuring clients that their money is safe seconds until it pops.

You own literally nothing, they take your money and add a fake number to the website. If you DRS it takes weeks and the cost basis is missing. Meanwhile SEC confirms that the real share price GME is MUCH higher than ticker price.

As sad as it is, you're agreed to your broker owning your assets, no matter how big you think they are and how professional their platform is.

This stonk is bigger than them all. It's been massively shorted for decades. Nobody thought 200k people would be so dedicated that they'd spend 3 billion dollars in under 2 years.

Street name = nothing

Own your shit. Fuck the system. GME is my bank account.
