since Ryan Cohen has tweeted. Almost a month... Something is happening behind the scenes that our smooth brains just couldn't handle. I can feel it.

And now every day more and more stories that should have been released years ago about all the crime and the criminals. The media acting like they're not sure what to say or "accidentally" dropping words like "naked shorting", and then 10min later 10 other stations are doing damage control downplaying the whole thing.

Everyone in charge playing dumb like they have in the past. Pointing fingers and blaming someone else rather than addressing the situation. It's the same lame...just downright greedy pattern as before except this time too many people saw it coming and acted on it.

And the ones that acted on it are you, me, those 2 guys over there... not the ones with millions in bank already and a gambling addiction.

Think about it... and ask your friends and family. "Has anyone (other than your family) ever cared what you spent your money on? And to the point that they'll spend BIG money to try to keep you from spending your little money?" Crazy, right? Why would anyone do that? That fact alone means something. That and all the DD, RC radio silent...

This is the best part of the simulation. I've got my tickets, made them official(DRS) and now I'm just waiting for the fireworks. No rush, the longer it takes the bigger the show.

But it's coming...
