It is my opinion that S3 coming out and saying 30 is PaRaBoLiC is to flip the script on us come mooass time. Like many of you, I am unsure how close mooass truly is--probably tomorrow. But, with all the spiciness coming forth with: ortex data, a big fat nopex, the S3 appearance, BBBeyond 8-k filings showing short squeeze mentions, Carl Icahn tweets, credit suisse fiasco, incoming rate hikes, meta collapsing, and so much more. I believe the table may finally be set--for the second time.

That being said, I think what we are witnessing is main stream media attempting to gain the trust of the non GME loyalists. There will be insane FOMO as this rocket kicks off on its sweet trek to tendie town. In doing so, millions of people will latch on with paper hands. Main stream media is attempting to create trust for those paper handed individuals, and even test the likes of our own community.

To me, the mission is clear: get ahead of the squeeze, say they saw it coming, congratulate the victors \[prematurely\], and tell us when it's over. However, we know when this ends. No cell, no sell, phone number prices only. So when mainstream media begins to say the war has been won, and it is time to sell as it is going down fast. Just know, this is their last attempt to shake off as many of us as possible. Their last attempt to save their precious wealth syphoning system, no matter who goes down for the cause. I for one, will be hodling my sweet sweet GME shares in my computershare account.

But what do I know, I'm just an individual investor who likes a stock.
