Some big dick comes around like Cuban, Buffet, Musk, etc and buys the remainder of the free float !
Because they like the stock too

The low volume we've been seeing lately, couple million shares/ day, that's like 500k pre split. Insane. It would disappear due to being purchased up quickly, and the price would climb having to find sellers for remaining shares. Like 100 million shares would have to be located and the house of cards would collapse.

It would be like a tsunami tearing through a desert. If someone like that came along and drs their gme position, could be all it takes to kick start real prices and not keep trading sideways for another who knows how long.
