Hello! German ape here. Unfortunately, we are region blocked for the NFT marketplace, so I have been late to the game. After setting up a VPN, I have moved all my crypto assets away from the other exchanges and you should to. Not only are you reducing your risk by an exchange going down, but you can also support our beloved company.

I have immediately been putting the money to work and I must say it's addictive. ■■■■ Crypto is okay in regard to excitement, but if you add another element such as limited collections, I am constantly debating about whether I should up my investment. Anyway, time for this is after the squeeze. Now all it plays money.

So, why this post? I found this very cool dashboard which gives you insights into the marketplace:

In the summary tab, you can find e.g. these lovely charts:

You can also dive into the details of the different creators and collections.

While the trade volume chart is trending down month over month, I think we smart apes know how to cope with such a trend and are just awaiting the lift off. Every collection release causes a spike in the metrics and with the looming launch of Kiraverse and Project Gemini will bring unique possibilities to GameStop NFT holders, which will cause an explosion in visibility, excitement and demand! ■■■■■■
