

Title: Financial freedom is not selfish

Author: thwipsandquips

Created 2022-09-12 13:58:16 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/xcdjox/financial_freedom_is_not_selfish/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/xcdjox/financial_freedom_is_not_selfish/

Financial freedom is not selfish

Hey everyone, just wanted to share a little about myself and what I think about the current situation. I'm an ape that has had a lot of blessings in life- I have great supportive family members and friends. I've had the opportunity to get a good education and pursue my passions. I haven't struggled to the degree that many of you have- you all definitely deserve this squeeze more than I do and my heart goes out to all of you. Even still, I really want this to happen sooner than later. I've been patient for almost 2 years and need to see positive changes in the market where justice prevails.

I mean, there's got to be more to life than working a 9-5, coming home for a few hours, then rinsing and repeating. I know some of you work even more than that- 50 or 60 hour work weeks with long commutes. I love reading your stories and have mad respect for you kind and hard-working apes just trying to get by and provide for your families. I want this squeeze to happen soon for myself, of course, but also so I can give back to my loved ones and make their lives just a little easier.

I hate living in a system where a handful of elites make the rules and only enforce them on us commoners. I hate living in a system where these elites can cheat, lie, and steal and only get a slap on the wrist, if even that, while they profit off of our misery and suffering. They're a bunch of dragons hoarding wealth while looking at us "peasants" with disdain, ready to burn us and our homes to the ground as soon as we have no money left for them to take. They sit on mountains of gold, so large that they couldn't spend it all in several lifetimes, let alone their own. These people treat life like a game of Monopoly and laugh at our suffering. They don't give a fuck about any of us and it's about time that changed.

I know many of you aren't asking for much. A lot of apes talk about lambos and mansions, but from what I've read, most of you just want financial freedom- the freedom to not worry about how you'll pay your next bills, the freedom to pursue your passions and interests, and the freedom to give back to your loved ones and provide for them so they don't have to suffer. I want that too. Now, don't misunderstand me when I say that. Please hold as long as you want 'til your personal price point is reached, I know I will. I'm just saying that we're not like the dragons- we have hearts and want to use our money for good and altruistic purposes.

Don't let anyone- your families, friends, and certainly not the media tell you that you're selfish. Even if you use all your gains for the most stupid, frivolous things, you're thousands of times less selfish than the Dragons of Wall St.

Dragons are notoriously difficult to kill, and they're not going to give us the weapons or knowledge to do so. But we've found their weakness, and they're bleeding out as we speak. I have no idea when they'll die- the corruption of the U.S. stock market knows no bounds as we've seen over the last couple years and continue to see, but eventually, we WILL slay them and redistribute their wealth back to the people who deserve it. We know their tactics now, and they're boring. The fact that just buying and holding gme (and DRS ofc, I'm 100% DRSed) is crippling them while they continue to break the rules should tell you all you need to know. After this is said and done, we'll build a kingdom where everyone can thrive and support each other. Stay strong apes, and take care.

TL;DR- Hedgies are dragons hoarding gold. Soon we take gold and dance on their graves