Greetings Apes

Purchased 11 more GME shares before the splivident through WealthsimpleCA. Waited till after the split to transfer the now 44 shares to BMO for the free DRS transfer from there.

Like everyone else, I got told 3-4 weeks for them to make it over.

Its now a week later and 44 new shares are sitting in my Computershare account. Out of curiosity I decided to check my BMO account, expecting it to now be empty. To my surprise I found all 44 of them showing up there too.

I'm now concerned about some fuckery coming from BMO's end especially after reading some fud/rumors about shares getting reverse DRSED. Planning to check in again on Monday and call BMO if the shares still showing up there.

Anybody got an explanation or had this happen to them?

I've also noticed that CS doesn't have the cost basis for any of my shares, all of them originally bought through WS. Could I simply send the documents that WS provides in their app over to CS or does that need to be done by WS/BMO?
