Netflix has 221M subscribers, the largest subscription streaming service of its class. I opine that "Eat the Rich: another shitty attempt to convince the public to forget GameStop" will be the most viewed GameStop movie to date.. That being the case, I don't think "Zen and ignore" is the most effective ape response.

A highly viewed and easily accessible GME movie is more than good, it's GRRRREAT!! Each one of us has friends/family that will at least hear of it, if not watch it themselves. That provides an incredible opportunity to speak with them about it! I conducted a survey recently that showed most new apes were brought here by word of mouth. This is a perfect way to use your purty mouth to casually bring up the true story. I know I will! I used the previous films to disclose to friends that I'm a cultist (/s). So when the new one comes out, hopefully they come to me with conversation. But if not, well, it's up to me...

I'll simply say, "Yo friend/father/aunt/sister, did you see or hear about that new GameStop doc on Netflix? Yeah lol it was funny. You really should watch it. They are trying so hard to keep people away from GameStop. They didn't even mention DRS or that the DTCC committed International securities fraud." And then they come to you with questions, "Um, ok, so what am I missing? Why is this unmentioned 'DRS' so important? And what's the DTCC... OMG DRS CAUSED DTCC TO COMMIT FRAUD.. woah... I gotta DRS my shit!"

If you didn't know, the Streisand Effect is a phenomenon that INCREASES awareness despite efforts to hinder it.

I'll watch it to take notes and write a post highlighting all the garbage they spew, with accompanying (ideally) concise corrections/rebuttals, timestamps and all. That way anyone without direct access can still have specific talking points with anyone around them.

Finally, to highlight why spreading awareness is so imperative: If you're not familiar with the DRS GME website, you should become familiar. Most of us are aware of the drama this summer involving the legend /u/ millertime1216, and, regardless of station, you must admit no one is working harder to spread awareness than him and the team.

Miller posts DRS account growth numbers monthly, and the mid-September results are concerning: See here. It goes like this: Apes on reddit, although continuing to add to their positions, have largely registered everything we've got. That conclusion is derived from significantly decreased new CS accounts in September... SHFs can't stop the movement but have now focused all efforts on containing it here on Reddit. So spread the word outside of this community. Ideally those you inform will not only become apes but will also inform others in their circle.
