Then how come the gme price doesn't jump up naturally to where it should be in German market when nyse is closed?

Prepared for downvotes.

All I hear is "tomorrow, tomorrow" when it seems like tomorrow doesn't even exist anymore because crooks just fuck the numbers however they like.

Not asking this to say the price isn't wrong. I know it is. Just don't get how real prices aren't shown in other markets outside of this one. When sec does nothing to stop infinite liquidity and price suppression.

$60billion in ftd from citadel, and no one burning them down to collect what's been failed to deliver. And German sec actually seems like they do their jobs.

Just kind of disappointed this has been dragged out so long.

Wont be surprised if after 100% drs they still keep bull shitting the price to discourage us.

I don't trust the system, so how can I keep faith that they will let apes come out on top?
