Let me preface this with I am not a smart man but based upon my understanding of everything-Everyone "knows" that they are shorting us treasuries to use as collateral which effectively doubles US debt in the event that citadel and others go insolvent? As the US bonds are insured by federal government. Hedge funds rehypothicate treasuries on their own balance sheets to increase collateral. Then if the fund blows up wouldn't there be multiple copies of the same fed backed assets. The fed prints money and issues debt, now citadel reissues that same debt again as a short treasuries or bond. When ken griffin stated that he manufactured money he might not have been exaggerating! Now look at the rate hikes boosting the yields of said instruments as a market crashing, basically the money created from shorting US debt is becoming a problematic.  $1,000,000 \text{ in debt} \times 1\% = 10,000$  a year with rates increasing  $1,000,000 \times 4\% = 40,000$  so my question is this is the fed raising rates fighting shorts against the US? Think if gme restarted the dividends (which shorts pay) and then kept increasing gme dividend thus fucking over shorties. Now the only way out is either get fed to drop rate or exit short position drying up the rehypothicated collateral. How to remove excess money from system close the rehypothicated debt, the fed raising rates to fight shorts on America thereby removing money supply that should not exist. -fed creates  $1,000,000$  in debt funds like citadel create let's say 5 copies so  $5,000,000$ . That  $10,000$  to  $40,000$  is now at least  $200,000$  that has to be made without losing a single dollar for the scam to continue(not hard if you can control the market) so someone like citadel that's a market maker/hedge fund/ family office/foreign companies/bribes officials(donations)/ settle all illegal activities outside of a court of law(sec fines I mean bribes)/forgot to mention algo to control price/ all the news and network stations/lawyers to sue anybody and everybody) well shit where the heck is the people that break up monopolies? the people that go after cartels? The white collar crime? How does half the population scream crime and regulators don't look, don't care, and don't prosecute? Lookin at you sec?Greed and short sighted thinking have never worked when did they forget all that? Someone somewhere is going bust and the impact is going to be incredible.
