TLDR: Netflix has 221M subscribers, the most of any streaming service. That means you most likely know someone who has either heard of "eat the rich" or seen it themselves. Use this to initiate a conversation with them, provide them with proper discourse about DRS (unmentioned) and how it caused the DTCC to commit international securities fraud. PROPER AWARENESS IS SHF'S BIGGEST FEAR. I bet that they WANT you to ignore it, because if you explain to those around you what's wrong with it, they may start to understand what's behind the curtain.

It is exactly as you all suspect, another "the squeeze has squoze, Forget GameStop" hit piece. But don't equip your shield here and ignore this side quest. COUNTER it! Use it as a weapon, turn it around on them, show the people WHY they are spending so much time/effort trying to get retail to forget GameStop.

I wrote this specifically to aid in a conversation with a layman. Or perhaps someone who is aware of YOUR involvement, but they're on the fence. This is meant to address concerns/fabrications/half-truths therein. It's short, but I'm sure you could fill in the gaps.

EAT THE RICH. EPISODE 1

00:00 - Jim Cramer sob story - Jim had back surgery during the sneeze, likely due to Ken and Co. riding him so hard.

1:30 - Cramer, "Guys like me are trying to help people."

*LOL. { Insert all his garbage stock calls }

1:40 - Jim, "What is their mission, to destroy the face of capitalism?"

*Villainizing the people. Retail simply wants FREE AND FAIR MARKETS. If destroying the current over-corrupted system leads to that, then that is what must be done. Here's the concise mission

1:48 - SEC WARNING - "The following may cause poor financial decisions, questionable life decisions, and general anxiety about your monetary positions."

*Speaking directly at non-DRS holders here? Basically telling anyone, again, "Sell now, ask later." Here's another SEC warning telling people to "Forget GameStop"

3:18 - "Believe it or not, it could happen again."

IMMEDIATELY FLASHES TO RED SCREEN - "NOT FINANCIAL ADVICE"

*subconscious deterrent. We've heard it a million times before "Forget/sell GameStop."

8:20 Speaking of markets, "Very Darwinian, there's winners and losers"

* Did Darwin address cheating in his theory of natural selection? Here's Patrick Byrne explaining some cheating

19:50 - Guggenheim rapper "Retail loves Jimmy Chill".... Cramer, "If I can help people find good stocks or teach them, well that's what I do!"

Here's Cramer helping investors by explaining exactly how he manipulated the markets as a hedge fund manager.

20:10 - "They don't have a clue, they keep thinking they can beat the house."

SURPRISE...No mention of DRS: the shortest, sweetest, and simplest way to beat the house by circumventing their manipulative tactics.. Get Fukt hedgies.

24:10 - An ape, "People think we're stupid, we embrace it, we're just dumb apes."

*speaking for retail investors. I know this isn't Guggenheim, but I had taken a bunch of notes about how "retail traders" in the movie were portrayed poorly, hypothesizing that the interview was cherry-picked.. thank you u/hrhdianalynn for coming out and specifically addressing these concerns. Read her Personal anecdote 29:40 Movie explains 140% SI as shares lent more than once.

*No mention of naked shorting

37:57 The ONLY reference to SuperStonk.. a quick 1 sec view of the old banner, it takes up maybe 6.9% of the screen.
