Apparently, employees at the gaming retail chain have been getting odd deliveries for a while. Some of my favorites include a shower beer can holder, squish balls, Pampers diapers, toddler walkers, and a vent clip that holds chicken nugget dipping sauce. Diapers and stress balls are a little odd, but normal people do use them. On the other hand, I want to know if there are really freaks who drink beer in the shower.

I also discovered this giant plastic egg filled with randomized collectibles (i.e. stuff that none of the other customers wanted). It's not just video games trying to sell you loot boxes now: It could also be your local gaming retailer.
