

Title: YOU need to buy more stuff from gamestop, not just DRS. Locking the float is incredibly important, so is making the balance sheet positive which opens the doors to NFT dividends and makes it more investable for new investors

I've been receiving many emails nearly everyday from Gamestop offering different products from their stores. They also have a promotion to give an NFT for $200 worth of purchases before a set deadline.

It's very clear that they want more business and customers, especially for this quarter. Unfortunately their marketing is being overshadowed by the institutions that want the store to never succeed. This may be why you rarely see advertisements for gamestop, because there's a collected effort to destroy this business from very powerful people who never want the poors to make any money.

Please keep DRSing shares but also buy more from the stores or online. They offer free shipping past a certain amount and same day shipping in the US via doordash. Their NFT marketplace is the only thing in the entire global crypto community that's actually holding its value very well. Many items that were pumped from mint price are actually sustaining their massive growth. There's real potential there with digital assets that give in game items that work across multiple games, some with charitable donations even from second sales.

Not everyone has the money to buy, drs, shop, but please do the best you can, spread the word to friends and family, tell them to buy their next console or game or Tshirt from the gamestop instead of amazon.

This is the people vs infinite money. This is the first time in history that the people can actually do something against the financial criminals that have run this planet for so long. They can print infinite USD but they do not have the shares or the resources to own all the shares.
