As an Austrian ape I would pay a lot of money to send and especially convert money (USD -> EUR) from superstonk to my banking account here in my country. A colleague of mine showed me wise.com. It seems to be able to save me a real lot of money when there is the time to sell something of GME. Computershare wants 3% for the conversion. Wise only wants about 0,3% or something. My own bank seemingly after 4 times asking is not able to give me a straight answer about prices of conversion or if they would do it, if the money is sent in USD to my bank account. Well then, wise seems so be a neat way of dealing with this.

Does someone have any experience with wise.com? Is it trustable enough? Anything hidden someone knows about why he/she would not use it?

I'd be very glad to have some opinions!
