Sam sent these messages to the company slack. He states that his first priority is to make all customers whole and he plans to do that via a raise which may include FTX US as well. Fundraising options with binance have been exhausted, but Justin Sun seems interested in helping out. However from his tweets, he seems only interested in making people who own his coins(tron, btt, etc) whole. Justin Sun is also having issues of his own at the moment as his decentralized stablecoin has depegged.

These were leaked to a well known Twitter account named Cobie, by an ftx employee and confirmed by another employee. There have also been leaks that the employees had no clue what was going on as only the execs had access to the wallets and had the ability to cook the books. Many employees also have funds on FTX, so they have also been fucked by SBF.
