Check this shit out... supersub mods ^(\^)^(spits in disgust) received a request from Ortex for posting approval (due to sub requirements). Fair enough... that doesn't sound suspicious, we all know the major players are all watching our subs constantly.. the absolutely crazy part, and the smoking gun, is highlighted in the mod comment below:

These fuckers knew what was about to happen and were trying to get last minute approval to go full on damage control once the shares borrowed skyrocketed today.

I love the speculation on what is happening, there are lots of great guesses and we'll have to wait and see how this all plays out, but for now I am absolutely blown away by the seemingly clear evidence that they knew this was about to happen. Occam's Razor right?

16 hours ahead of this huge spike in GME borrows is way too much of a Coincidence. They knew.

BUCKLE UP! We are in for one hell of a ride.
