Hello fam!

I recently got a new bank account that I plan to use as my "sell instructions" in CS.

But I see in my bank instructions regarding Swift payments that the money is first routed through an USA bank and then it goes to my non American bank.

The thing is that we are speculating about big banks going puff soon and I can't stop wondering, is it safe for my money to make that stop in a big evil classic bank?

I have no option, but soon when I want to cash out some mills, can the bank just fuck me ? Or they are just an technical intermediary here??

I love GameStop

HODL

thanks!

Edit for spelling
