Right now I have "my GME shares" on my brother's ComputerShare account, this represents no problem as I have a very good relationship with him. Even though I would still prefer to have them under my own ComputerShare. The main problem is I am from Europe and he works in the USA, so the process he had to follow was just a simple one by DRSing from Fidelity. Me, as a European I guess it would be much more complicated.

Is it recommended? Is the Computershare maintenance fee very high? I personally do not own a lot of shares so I do not want to be paying a lot in monthly fees.
