

Title: My brain is more smooth than JWST mirrors -I just saw they split the shares. What implications does this have for MOAS?

Author: cpt_raymondholt

Created 2022-10-19 16:58:22 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/y87zwg/my_brain_is_more_smooth_than_jwst_mirrors_i_just/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/y87zwg/my_brain_is_more_smooth_than_jwst_mirrors_i_just/

I bought my first 2.5 GME shares through CS earlier this year and I just opened my account to see that it split back in July. I am not a stock person but I've done my DD about holding out against the short positions, but I'm about as competent in stock market mechanics as a golden retriever is at calculus.

I've lurked here a bit, but have a hard time connecting everything through all the memes. Could someone give me a run down of what implications the split has on my position which is now 5.23 shares plus whatever 500$ gets me when CS locks in a purchase price and finishes my purchase as of last week.

Also, what's the latest on the original short position? shouldn't they have been bleeding premiums enough by now to force MOAS? How are they holding out to avoid MOAS? what do we think their end-game strategy is at the moment?

Thank you for your 'not advice' feedback from an earnest casual with Graphene hands.