As a follow-up to some some basic trend analysis on GME. I noticed there is something about the month of August. With such dry liquidity and the DRS pool growing bigger by the day I believe we have started a major move up.

The end of 2019 though 2020 marked a major value accumulation zone and confirmation of a down trend that reversed in August of 2020. I believe the up trend confirmation shown in my last post is the start of the next leg up.
